JOHN F. JOYCE

To Mr. Joyce, our Assistant Principal, and Dean of Boys, who has done so much to develop our minds, strengthen our morals, mold our characters, and make our years at L.H.S. both pleasant and profitable, in sincere appreciation, we dedicate this 1958 edition of our yearbook.

LILLIAN RICKER

To Miss Ricker, our Dean of Girls, who through her warm personality, diversified talents, and sincerity of purpose, has been an inspiration and guide to us all, we also dedicate with gratitude and appreciation, our 1958 yearbook.

School Committee

Message From the Principal

What thoughts are in the minds of a high school graduate who looks forward to assuming adult responsibilities in a world where tremendous events are taking place daily and even more tremendous events are predicted for tomorrow?

We are told that we must have more skilled scientists in order that the United States of America may not find itself at the mercy of enemies wielding weapons of unimagined destructive power, nor be left behind in the race to conquer space.

Perhaps some of you will contribute to our scientific know-how and make us very proud of you. Obviously, however, not all of you will qualify for this type of service to your country. May I suggest a contribution that all of you can make? "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Obedience to that commandment could effect greater wonders in the world than anything science can achieve.

Let no prejudice take root in your own thoughts. Seek to understand people close to you and the distant people of the world. Want for all men the good things you want for yourself. Having first made sure that in thought and deed you have made yourself worthy of peace and prosperity, pray for these things for the whole world. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," Tennyson said. Against the forces that threaten the world with destruction, let us set the greater force in the power of prayer.

*Saxton Trade
High School
Class of 1958*

A Message From the Director

Wise old Benjamin Franklin said, "The man who has mastered a trade owns an estate." Surely, the fascinating developments of this century will attest to the truth of Franklin's perceptiveness. In such diversified fields as plastics, home construction, die making and tool production, to mention but a few, the American tradesman has exercised an imagination and applied a talent which has contributed immeasurably to the prosperity of the world and the defence of this country. No knowledgeable citizen can conceivably discount the trade training movement in this varied and sometimes provocative era.

This year Saxton Trade High School sends forth the largest and most intensively trained class in its history. A strong corps of expertly trained instructors has worked industriously to cultivate competence and reliability within the minds and hearts of the graduates. I extend a hearty wish for endless success and great personal happiness to the members of the Class of 1958. Finally, I am supremely confident that the great resources which are abundantly manifest in this group will be warmly welcomed by our appreciative community.

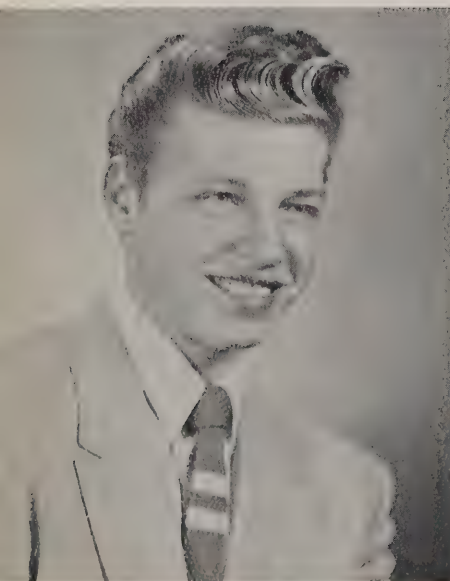

BETHEL ANDERSON

"I am the master of my fate; I am the captain of my soul"—Definitely one of the rugged individualists on the American scene. Brings imagination and foresight to most class discussions—always the defender of the oppressed.

FRANCIS BOISSE

Subtle as a thunderstorm—absolutely unique sense of humor. Saxton's candidate for the upper ranks of super salesman—the born experimenter—seems to subsist on an exclusive blend of atomic vapor.

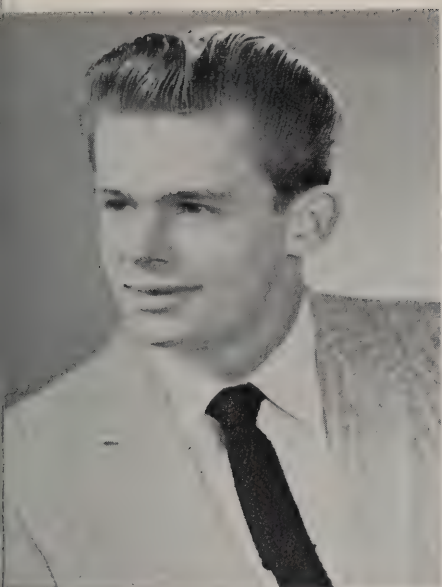

KENT BEYELER

Competent secretary of the Student Council—quiet but persuasive—utterly content in the drafting room. Owns an exciting twang.

RODNEY CHRISTIAN

Saxton's man of affairs. His interests stretch from Hollywood to Skowhegan. Patron of the pictorial and verbal arts—very business minded. His sketches of the projected Northeast School earned cheers from the professionals.

GORDON CLAY

Tall and rangy—never far from fun and frolic. Likes to tinker with cars and understands the Whalom routine to a turn. Masterful politician in the machine shop world.

RICHARD COLLINS

A member of the "I could have danced all night" set. A stunning conversationalist—Reads extensively and knows more than a little about politics. Very agile on the basketball court. Headed for the U. S. Air Force.

LUCIAN COMEAU

A machinist of parts and a seaman of note—cruised to Bermuda last summer with the Worchester Naval Reserve. Very active in C.Y.O. activities. Happy as the day is long and a firm devotee of the "Come what may" school of thought.

CARMINE CONTI

Spontaneous as a firecracker—A-1 in the industrial Arts Department. A man who could always be associated with a cellar workshop and the most recent issue of "Popular Mechanics"—has already achieved peace of mind and soul.

GEORGE CROTEAU

Thinks deeply but speaks infrequently—unpretentious and unassuming in manner. Meets the day's work with a smile—Genuine as a draft registration card.

WILLIAM DAY

Faithful commuter and expert in all things concerning Sterling. Deft designer in the plastics shop. A flaming redhead who makes the world smile and like it.

BRUCE DIVOLL

A strong, silent iron man—Charley's brother—Fond of machinery and an automobile specialist. Neat as a West Point Cadet. Should afford the Fruehauf combine real competition in a decade or two.

EARL DIVOLL

"Actions speak louder than words" A bright star in the Saxton Constellation—Likes what he does and does, mostly, what he likes. Ace construction man—good bet on any team.

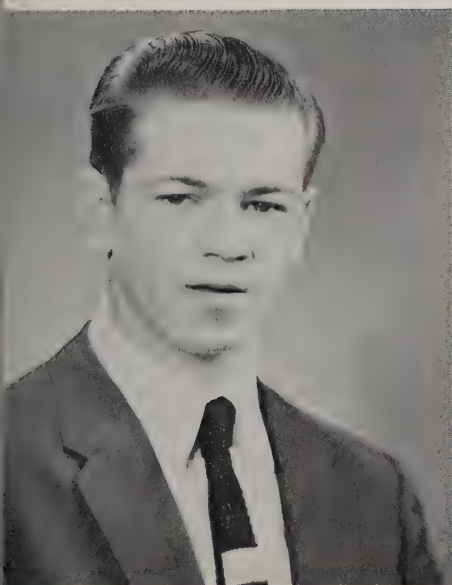

ROBERT FOURNIER

A whimsical personality—intermittently serious, sober, jolly—will give increasingly difficult competition to Bennett Cerf. Invariably ferrets out whatever life has to offer.

FREDERICK GAUTHIER

Truly a no-nonsense, we're here for business type of player. Well known only by his friends. Always willing to do more than his share. Nose to the grindstone and hand to the wheel always, yet never misses a joke.

ROBERT GUILLEMETTE

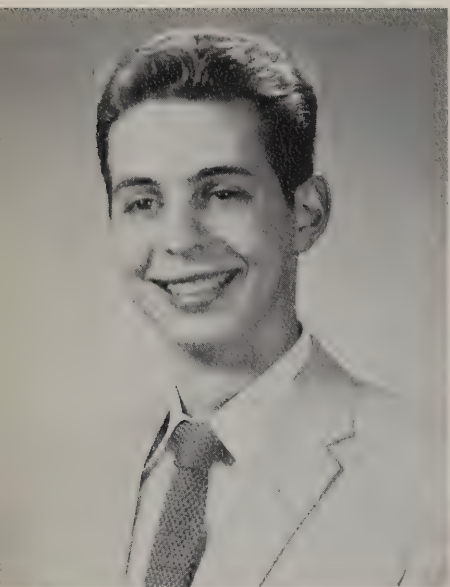

A sturdy thread in the Saxton tapestry. Never puzzled by the violence which more and more civilization seems to produce. Would be as much at home in Brittany as in Leominster—truly an homme du monde who cuts through the smog of the small talk of little people with a precision that never fails to please.

STEPHEN HARRIS

A man of varied talents. Number One National Guardsman in the Saxton troop. Original craftsman—connoisseur of all moving vehicles regardless of pedigree. Could qualify as a gunsmith. Reserved for the Army Reserve.

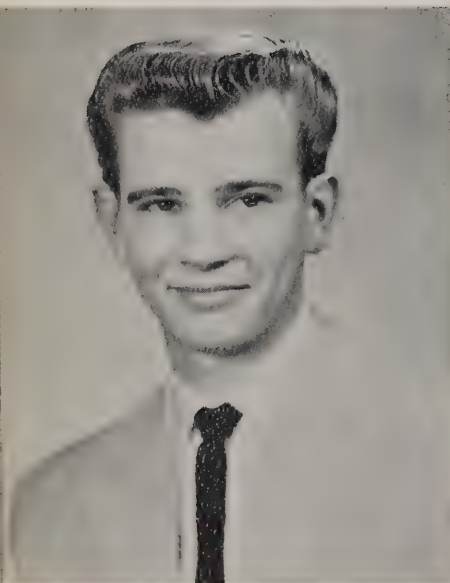

RONALD KOLB

Nova Scotia's contribution to the Class of 1958. A silent, mysterious type—neat as Arrow collar ads. Happy at his drafting board. Prefers the wide open spaces of the Northland.

PAUL LEHOUX

Quiet, resourceful, thoughtful—gridiron interests. A master of life and its problems. Considerable literary talent—a penetrating observer of the passing scene. Essentially a builder.

A man with a contagious grin and a true gentleman's manner. Politically minded as befits his heritage. A star in the civics class—defender of right over might. Could qualify as ward chairman.

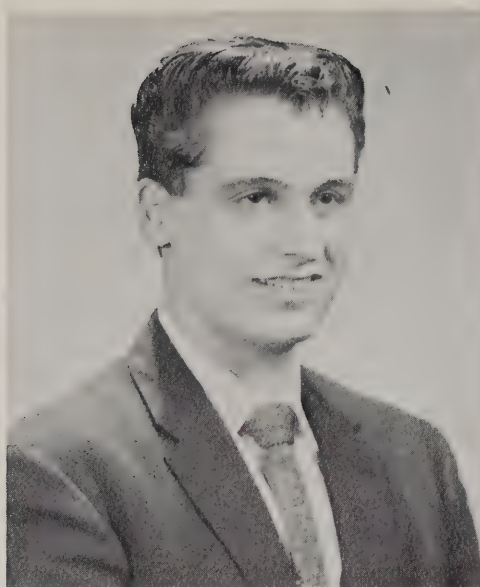

DONALD MORISSETTE

Dynamic defender of human rights. Already a candidate for membership in the Civil Liberties Union. Could make the halls of Congress ring with his thunderous speeches—really a carpenter at heart.

ROBERT OSTMAN

A distinguished golfer—his sizzling drives out-distance Sputnik and never fail to thrill the patrons at Monoosnock. A capable machinist and a reliable citizen of the Republic.

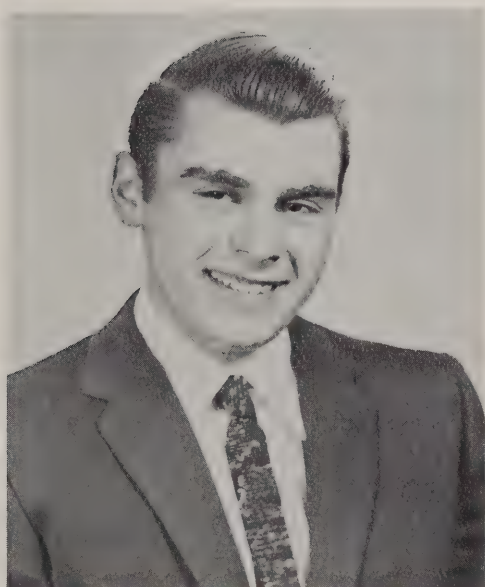

HENRY POCHINI

Identifies quickly with such sons of thunder as Duke Ellington, Sidney Becket and Louis Armstrong. Plays a dulcet sax that conjures up that old black magic quickly. A talented crooner, a true son of a troubled century.

RALPH PEREZ

A true Jeffersonian who enjoys nothing better than a conversation about the New Deal—a human fireball. Studies well in the daytime and reports unflinching for the 4-11 shift. Sometimes longs secretly for the beloved sights of the Bronx but seems well adjusted to the rusticity of Worcester County. Happily married and the father of two very beautiful children.

RONALD STEBBINS

The gentleman tradesman—bows to no one in the practice of carpentry. Clients seek him out and sing his praises when the job is completed—enjoys the satisfaction of a job well done.

ROBERT ST. YVES

Definite ideas strongly expressed—earnest student disposed toward serious thinking—faithful advocate of the Democrats. Fertile mind under an unruffled exterior—candid in the tradition of Harry Truman.

Class History

Sophomore Year ('55-'56)

The first day we entered L.H.S., we were "shaking in our boots." The first week or so was very nerveracking, but gradually this feeling left us and we, the class of '58, became full fledged members of L.H.S., although we still had to sing, dance, and carry back trays once in a while.

Five minute speeches were our biggest worry and we were all surprised to find out how really easy it was to give them.

The first big thrill of our sophomore year was when some of the boys in our class got into the Thanksgiving Day Game. L.H.S. was victorious in that game and it made us feel quite proud.

The rest of our sophomore year ran along quite smoothly. We participated in the various sports and became part of the team.

As our sophomore year came to an end, we elected our class officers for our junior year. Jimmy Gately was elected our President, Fred Spring our Vice-President, Rita Lisciotti our Secretary, and Kent Carluccio our Treasurer. We ended our sophomore year knowing that we would begin our junior year with just as much enthusiasm as when we began our first day of school at L.H.S.

Junior ('56-'57)

After a short summer vacation our class was again together at L.H.S. In September we chose our Junior Cheerleaders. They were Ginny Burnap, Joyce Wheeler, "Bing" Toolin, and "Bunnie" Marshall. In October we held our first big event, the spaghetti supper. Thanks to our advisors, Miss Hartnett and Mr. Christopher and all the members of the committees, our first event was a big success.

January marked the beginning of a new year and also the beginning of new and thrilling events for us. The first was the Winter Carnival. Also, we had the opportunity to see how the businesses of our city were operated by observing B.I.E. Day.

Finally, after a long year of studying came the biggest social event of the year, the Junior-Senior Prom. Everyone had an enjoyable time dancing to the music of George Kaye and his orchestra.

As we left our Junior Year, we were looking forward to our final year at L.H.S.

Senior Year ('57-'58)

As the fall of 1957 drew near, the students of the class of 1958 realized how little time there was before graduation. There was much we wanted to do before we graduated; so as soon as we were adjusted to the routine of our schoolwork, we began to make preparations for our first event of the year, the Senior spaghetti supper. We all wished to make this supper the best ever, since this was to be the last one we would have during our stay at L.H.S.; and due to the efforts of our classmates it proved to be a great success.

Our football team did a great job this year, winning four games and losing three. Although it was sad that we lost our Thanksgiving Day Game, the boys had done their best, and we were still proud of them.

The football season having come to an end, mid-year exams became our next objective. During the weeks that we studied in preparation for them until the time we took them, we planned no special events.

Once the mid-years were over, however, we began planning for one of the biggest dances of the year, "Cupid's Court." We nominated various pupils for the King and Queen of the ball, choosing four couples. We then voted for the ones we thought best-suited for the honor. We patiently awaited the night of the dance for the results of our balloting. James Gately was chosen our King, and Peggy Cranson, our Queen. The other three couples became Royal Attendants. They were Richard Robichaud and Susan Whitney, James Cannavino and Janet Bell, and Edward Mahoney and Brenda Marshall. The Crown Bearers were James Gardner and Joyce Wheeler. After the crowning of the King and Queen by Principal Theodore M. Kucharski, there was a Grand March led by the King and Queen, the Attendants, and the Crown Bearers.

L.H.S. was very proud of its basketball team this year and had every right to be. The team won 15 out of 15 games, finishing off the season undefeated and setting a record in the basketball history of L.H.S.

The choosing of representatives for Student Government Day and D.A.R. award was another milestone which our class reached when we chose Harry Christie and Peggy Cranson as our representatives.

Usually the senior class chooses its class motto at the end of the senior year, but our class decided to choose it at the beginning of the year in order to abide by its message "If God Be With Us, Who Shall Be Against Us?"

This year the Senior-Junior Prom was held on Friday evening, May 9, at City Hall. This was our biggest prom of the year, and we tried to make it our best.

The biggest event of our senior year was the Senior Play. This year we chose the French farce "An Italian Straw Hat." The play was about a lady who had her Italian straw hat eaten by a horse. This event led to many other humorous incidents until her hat was replaced by one exactly like it. It was a five-act play done in the fashion of the old time theater which had the audience rollicking in their seats, both during and after the performances. The play was presented on two nights, April 23 and 25, with a different cast for each night. If it weren't for the efforts of our director, Mr. Joyce; our production manager, David Pierce; our technical directors, Earl Divoll and Ronald Stebbins; and the entire casts, the play wouldn't and couldn't have been the success it was.

The next-to-the-last event of the year was our Senior Reception, which was held at the City Hall on Friday night, June 13. Of course, it was a very joyous event, but a hint of sadness prevailed, since it signified our senior year would soon be coming to a close and everyone would be going their different ways.

Graduation—Oh, we had all been looking forward to it for such a long time, and here it was. No more dragging ourselves out of bed at seven in the morning in order to greet our teachers at L.H.S., no more P.M. sessions, no more detention, no more L.H.S. Now we are all on our own, and the future is up to us. However, we will always remember our motto, "If God Be With Us, Who Shall Be Against Us?"
